

allure
6 MONTHS
ONLY $3
Subscribe

Colbert M.D. Intensify Facial Discs

Share 62 Tweet 1 g+ 0 Pintt 2 PRINT

FEATURED IN

- 5 Beauty Picks We're Obsessing Over

WHAT THEY ARE:

Single-use peels that use a one-two punch of gentle acids and scrubby textured pads to exfoliate

WHAT THEY DO:

Brighten skin, even out pigmentation, and minimize pores by boosting cell turnover

KEY INGREDIENTS:

Bromelain and lactic acid (exfoliate and brighten); glucosamine (boosts production of moisturizing hyaluronic acid)

HOW THEY FEEL/SMELL/LOOK:

The plastic backing on each nearly odorless peel-soaked disc has a flap that makes them easy to grip while you go to town buffing your complexion. The gritty texture of the pads is definitely noticeable—we felt a bit like a coffee table being sanded for refinishing—but we didn't experience any stinging or irritation, even if we went a bit over the recommended 30 to 60 seconds before rinsing.

WHY WE LIKE IT:

Peels, like pretty much everything in life, only work if you use them. And we tend to enthusiastically swipe away once or twice and then forget all about them until the day we open the jar and find a stack of dried out, totally unusable pads. It's for this reason that something that initially seemed like an annoyance—these discs are individually packaged in foil envelopes—turned out to be a serious plus when we realized we could keep a little stack of them at eye level in the shower and rip one open for use in between shampooing and conditioning. Because the convenience kept us on a regular every other day schedule, we had glowier, softer skin in just a week—and a noticeably more even complexion in three.

PRICE*: $64

—Sarah Van Boven

← PREVIOUS 5 OF 6 NEXT →

COLBERT M.D. INTENSITY FACIAL DISCS

Think lineless, poreless—dare we say it—flawless skin is impossible? Swipe one of these over your face every other day for two weeks: The fruit enzymes and lactic acid gently exfoliate without making skin red or blotchy.

Love reading about new products? Sign up for the Allure Beauty Product Finder weekly newsletter and stay up-to-date with our latest finds, reader reviews, special offers, and more.

VIEW LAST WEEK'S EDITORS' FAVORITES >

← PREVIOUS 5 OF 6 NEXT →